MOTHER JONES TO SKIP MANHATTAN

Will Lead Her "Army" from Jersey City to Brooklyn by Water to Avoid Possible Complications with the Police.

(Special to The Evening World.)
PATRICKSON, N. J., July 20.—Mother Jones' army of "Crusaders" from the textile mill of Philadelphia, left Helvetia Hall shortly before 1 o'clock, on another stage in their march to Oyster Bay to see President Roosevelt. Fifty strong, headed by their resolute female leader, the juvenile workers attracted much attention as they marched up Main street, on their five-mile walk to Passaic, where they intend to put in the night.

Early to-morrow morning the army will proceed to West Hoboken, where a big mass-meeting is scheduled to take place. From there Mother Jones and her followers will tramp to Jersey City, where more meetings will be held Wednesday afternoon and night.

Early Thursday morning the marchers will go to Brooklyn direct from Jersey City, not touching Manhattan at any point. This move is said to have been decided on by Mother Jones after reading in the newspapers yesterday that Police Commissioner Greene would probably refuse to permit the "Army" to parade across the principal borough of the Metropolis.

Mother Jones expects to reach Oyster Bay with her followers the last of this week, or the first of next, and before starting on this morning she reiterated the hope that President Roosevelt would accord her and the committee an audience.

Before leaving Helvetia Hall Mother Jones declared to the newspaper men that she had been tracked from Philadelphia by detectives and that the officers had been instrumental in reducing her following. Notwithstanding this, she said that those who remained were loyal and would follow her to the end. Yesterday Mother Jones addressed the convention of the United Silk Workers of America in their hall, after taking a train for New York, where she was slated to speak at a labor picnic. She returned in time to lead her army on to see the President.

PINKERTON MAN UP FOR OPPRESSION.

Mason Vallard Declares He Was Locked Up at the Morris Park
Race Course by Detective.

Attorney Benjamin Steinhardt, acting for Mason Vallard, of No. 142 West Twenty-ninth street, to-day caused the arrest of Abraham Heilmann, a Phoenix Detective agency operator, on a charge of oppression.

It is alleged that Heilmann arrested Vallard on the Morris Park race course on May 5 last and held him in an improvised lock-up for three hours. Upon his release Vallard asked Heilmann why he had imprisoned him, and asserted that the latter said, "Because I don't like your looks." Before his arrest he says Heilmann told him to make himself "scarce."

Heilmann was represented by Attorney Lindsay, of the law firm of Auerbach & Stern, counsel for the Morris Park Jockey Club. Robert Pinkerton gave bail for Heilmann in the form of a bond for $500, the surety being the building and lot at No. 57 Broadway, valued at $400,000.

Justice Olmstead, in Special Sessions, set Heilmann's examination for Monday next.

The Pinkertons say there will not be such a clamor for justice when they are released with the case.

KING EDWARD OFF
FOR IRISH VISIT

With Queen Alexandra and Princess Victoria Britain's Ruler
Sails For Queenstown While Great Throngs Cheer.

LONDON, July 20.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by the Princess Victoria and their suites, left London at 1 P. M. to-day for Ireland.

Though the day was gloomy, large crowds gathered in front of Buckingham Palace and along the route to Euston Station, and enthusiastically cheered the King and Queen, who drove to the depot in semi-state landaus, escorted by a detachment of the Household Cavalry.

The King wore his uniform of an Admiral.

Elaborate arrangements were made by the railroad company for the comfort of the distinguished travellers. The departure platform was closed to the public and the royal train was beautifully decorated with choice flowers, plants and bunting. When the King and Queen alighted at the station, which was also handsomely decorated, they were received by the railroad directors, with whom they shook hands.

The train consisted of two observation cars.

With the cheers of the people ringing in their ears, the King and Queen left London at 6 P. M. for Holyhead, where the royal yacht awaited them. They expect to reach Kingstown at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

MRS. CHENEY WADED
INTO RIVER TO DROWN

Stole Away from Sanitarium After Reassuring Her Watching Nurse.

(Special to The Evening World.)
BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 20.—Coroner E. E. Bauer's investigation into the death of Mrs. Adeline Cheney, widow of Alfred Cheney, of New York, whose body was found in the Susquehanna River at Oswego, developed two facts and resulted in the finding that the victim was drowned while temporarily insane.

Later a hat, umbrella and shawl were found lying on the river bank at the foot of Palmer street, and the woman's body was sighted floating in the river some distance from the scene.

It was fully attired, even to overshoes. As the water is shallow where Mrs. Cheney entered the river, she must have waded out some distance before drowning.

Early Sunday morning the nurse discovered that the patient was missing and search was immediately made at the 12000 mansion in Westview cemetery where the body of Alfred Cheney, formerly President of the Garfield National bank, treasurer of the Republican State Committee and chief promoter of the Nicaragua Canal lies, but no trace was found.

A hat, umbrella and shawl were found lying on the river bank at the foot of Palmer street, and the woman's body was sighted floating in the river some distance from the scene.

MILLIONAIRE DEAD
IN HOTEL BLAZE

Robert H. Hayes, of Pittsburg, and His Wife, Two of the Victims of Fire Which Followed Explosion While Guests Slept.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—Robert H. Hayes, a millionaire pipe contractor of Pittsburg, Mrs. Hayes, his wife, and Sherman D. Gregg, of Freeport, Pa., were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Golden Gate Hotel at Nome.

There were a number of narrow escapes, the guests fleeing from the burning building in their nightclothes.

The blaze was of an extraordinary character, and P. R. Burr, a cook, has been held for the coroner's jury on a charge of manslaughter, accused of causing it.

Burr, it is claimed, threw a tin of coal-oil on the kitchen floor and an explosion followed and the building being almost immediately in flames. Most of the guests were in bed at the time.

Many small buildings adjacent were burned.

The coroner's office and post-office took fire and were saved with difficulty. The loss was about $100,000.

ROXBURY INQUEST OFF.

Titus Does Not Believe Jackson's Supposed Wife Was Involved.

Because of the failure to serve all the witnesses with subpoenas the inquest into the Roxbury murder was adjourned from to-day until Wednesday next.

Jackson was sent to Harlem prison, where he will be held until the inquest is finished.

Inspector Titus says he does not believe that the woman who posed as Jackson's wife was in any way implicated in the crime, although he feels that Jackson had an accomplice and hopes to find him.

VENEZUELAN IN A HOT BATTLE

Rebels Routed with Heavy Loss at Ciudad Under Fire of Government Troops and Shells of the Fleet.

SOLEDAD, Venezuela, July 19.—At 5 A. M. to-day a battle between the Government forces and the revolutionists occupying Ciudad Bolivar, began in two different directions. The revolutionists opened the fight. At 6 o'clock the smoke over Ciudad Bolivar was so thick that it was impossible to see the city. At 7 o'clock the Government troops, after a terrible fight, in which they lost more than one hundred men, captured part of the territory.

At 8 o'clock the Venezuelan fleet, consisting of five men-of-war, shelled the Government building at Ciudad.

At 10 o'clock the revolutionists' flag had disappeared from the government building, and at 11 all the streets near the building were captured by the government forces, and a charge of all the government soldiers in the city was ordered.

The wounded were then beginning to arrive at the Government headquarters from all directions, and the fight was general, but the movements could not be followed from here in consequence of the smoke caused by the fire of the artillery of the revolutionists.

It was answered vigorously by the Government guns and only a few shots reached the fleet.

At 2 in the afternoon a block of houses opposite the Government building was captured by storm.

The revolutionists seemed to be resisting desperately.

The Associated Press correspondent said following from the smoke cleared away, was appalling. There were over two hundred dead revolutionists in the streets, not counting the wounded.

"BLESS YOU!"
WERE POPE'S DYING WORDS

Pontiff Had Lucid Intervals Before Death
Came at Four Minutes After Four o'Clock,
During Which He Recognized Those About Him, Gave His Hand to Be Kissed by the Cardinals Praying at His Bedside.

HE CONFIDED THE CHURCH TO CARE OF CARDINAL OREGLIA.

The Death of the Holy Father Was Officially Announced by Cardinal Rampolla, to Whom the Control of the Telegraph Wires Was Given by the Italian Government for that Purpose.

ROME, July 20.—Pope Leo is dead. The end came at 4.04 o'clock this afternoon. For a few minutes before he passed away the Holy Father was unconscious. The last evidence that he was conscious was at 4 o'clock, when he opened his eyes and smiled and then closed them again. His last words were "Bless you," to Mgr. Bisleti.

For more than ten hours the death of the Pontiff had been expected almost every minute. At times, however, he rallied and seemed to gain a little strength. The rallies were those of a dying man and were the assertion of the great will power of the man.

Two hours before the Pontiff died the Italian Government, learning that the end was only a question of minutes, turned over to the Vatican the telegraph facilities of the country. The strained relations between the Quirinal and the Vatican led the King to let the announcement of the death be made by Cardinal Rampolla, by whom the official announcement was made.

END CAME PEACEFULLY.

The Pope's end came peacefully, as was anticipated. Out of the deathlike coma, in which he lay for hours, the Pontiff passed with the faintest struggle into the endless sleep. The final gasp was like a sigh of an exhausted man sinking into profound slumber.

Dr. Laponi, who had been watching the apparently lifeless features, noticed the almost imperceptible relaxing of the emaciated features. He stepped forward and felt the Pontiff's wrist. There was no pulsation. He placed his head upon the Pontiff's breast above the heart. "It is over," he whispered to Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, the Grand Penitentiary, who had pronounced the benediction "in articulo mortis."

POPE'S DEATH ANNOUNCED.

Centra, the valet, knelt weeping at the foot of the bed. Rather than disturb him, Mgr. Agliardi, the Papal Secretary, stepped into the ante-chamber to announce the death to the waiting group of Cardinals. Mgr. Zachetti, the Major Domo, was the only one to enter the death chamber. It was his official duty to place white cloth over the features of the dead Pontiff and notify the Cardinal Camerlengo.

The solemn formality which follows the death of the supreme ruler of the Church was then instituted by Cardinal Oreglia. Orders were given the Major Domo to summon the prelates of the Apostolical Chamber and the Chief Usher of the Confidential Camerieri, or private chamberlains to the Camerlengo's chamber.

Meanwhile the Penitents of St. Peter were admitted to the death chamber and, kneeling about the Pontiff's bed, began the recitation of the Office for the Dead.

CARDINALS IN MOURNING.

When the Camerlengo and the prelates were vested in purple robes, the Cardinals' mourning colors, and without the carmail or red cape, the procession moved to the death chamber. Cardinal Oreglia alone approached the bed and, kneeling on a violet cushion, he breathed a short prayer while the Major Domo removed the white cloth from the Pontiff's features. Then the Camerlengo arose and with a silver hammer struck the icy forehead three times, calling each time "Giacomo."

Silence reigned throughout the chamber. Turning to the kneeling group the Camerlengo said solemnly: "The Pope is indeed dead." Immediately the De Profundis was begun. Then the Grand Penitentiary
